Randy's Story

Randy has a genetic lung disease called familial pulmonary fibrosis (FPB), and is in need of a double lung and kidney transplant at Mayo Clinic. Randy and his wife, Kristi, must temporarily relocate to Rochester MN where he will have daily pulmonary rehab until he receives new lungs.

Upon completion of that surgery and rehabilitation, he will undergo a kidney transplant.

During this time, Randy will not be able to work. In addition to the regular household expenses for their permanent home, the additional cost of rent and utilities for a 2-bedroom apartment in Rochester is $2,000/month. They will have this expense for the 18-24 months that Randy will be required to live near the transplant center.
